Marine Grade, Two-piece Fiberglass Shell Construction

The strong and lightweight fiberglass shell construction of Casita Travel Trailers eliminates siding-over-frame construction and has no roof seams. Casita's are constructed with a fiberglass top and bottom hull that are secured and sealed together with fiberglass, giving you a water proof body that is durable, lightweight and easy to clean. Moreover, it eliminates rusting and other deterioration, and will last and last!

Heavy-duty Steel Frame

Heavy-duty Steel Frame

The heavy-duty steel frame of a Casita Travel Trailer improves underbody strength, protects the camper from road and rough terrain damage, and carries heavy duty suspension mounts.

All-fiberglass Bottom Pan

All-fiberglass Bottom Pan

Every Casita Travel Trailer features an all-fiberglass bottom pan that eliminates rust problems, and eliminates under-carriage water leakage. The wood floor construction is completely sealed inside of trailer, preventing rotting from road moisture and dust penetration.

Insulated Interior

Insulated Interior

The insulated interior of each Casita Travel Trailer eliminates interior condensation, keeps the coach cool in summer and warm in winter, and it reduces outside noise levels.

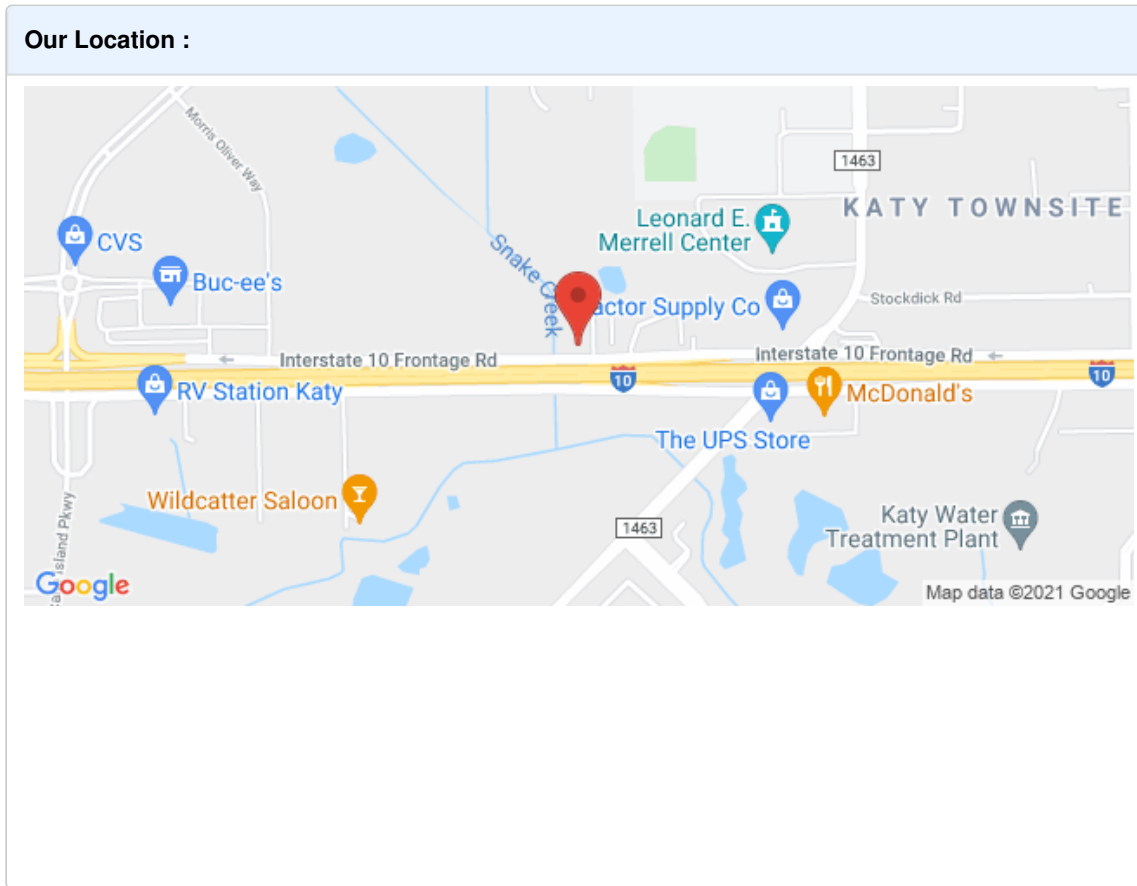

Lightweight, Fiberglass Interior Furniture

Lightweight, Fiberglass Interior Furniture

The interior furniture in each Casita Travel Trailer is made of sturdy-but-lightweight, fiberglass, which eliminates warping, is easy to maintain, fits a variety of decor, and makes the trailer lighter than other types of furniture.
