1979 Ford Bronco Ranger 4x4 survivor in solid condition and sure to impress. This truck has a beautiful patina and the photos show it well. The truck has been well preserved by the previous owners and is ready for you! This truck has a presence to it and gets attention everywhere it goes.

The body, cab, and underneath are solid. There is some rust on the body but mostly showing on the passenger quarter wheel arches. Some small areas starting on the inside bottom of the driver's door and bottom of the tailgate. Also, a small spot showing on the rear quarter by the exhaust. All can be seen in the detailed photos and video. We also welcome your questions and request for additional information.

The frame underneath is solid and original. Not hidden underneath by any undercoating. It has scaly surface rust as you would expect. A wire wheel and some rust mort and undercoating would be our next steps if we were keeping this truck. Everything mentioned is shown in the detailed photos and video. Overall a good example of a 79' Bronco.

This was the last year for this body style and for those who follow these trucks know this is an excellent find in its condition and price point. Great truck to drive as it sits Great truck to drive as it sits or boost its value significantly and restore it back to its former glory. We happily get red in the cheeks the way this truck looks today!

Powered by Fords 460 this truck runs strong and sounds great doing it. The C4 Automatic transmission shifts smoothly and overall this truck runs down the road well. It starts right up like a new vehicle and functions as it should. A 3.5" lift was installed, and it sits on 33" Toyo Open Country tires.. This truck has a presence to it and gets attention everywhere it goes.

Some notes worth mention: The rear window does not go down. The passenger seat folds forward manually pulling the cable. The Air Condition does not blow cold. Tires do have some dry rot on treads but do hold air. Overall this is a solid truck with a few quirks as mentioned and is ready for a new owner.

We have over 60 detailed photos for your review. We also welcome your inspection prior to purchase. For more details and with any questions please contact Adam
