The 2014 BMW F700GS is a motorcycle model produced by the German automaker BMW. It belongs to the company's F-series of dual-sport bikes, which are designed for both on- and off-road use. The F700GS features a 798cc parallel-twin engine and a 19-inch front wheel, making it well-suited for adventure riding and off-road exploration. The bike has an upright and comfortable riding position, a standard ABS and ASC (automatic stability control) for increased safety, and it's available with a variety of optional equipment such as heated grips, luggage, and electronic suspension adjustment. It was a popular model and was well received by the riders and media.
