Next up coming in under market average we have a 2005 Lemans Blue Metallic Corvette. Great thing about the 2005 is the first year of the new body style Corvette making this a C6 which is quite the upgrade over the C5 in all aspects. First up the drivetrain, we still have a 6-speed manual transmission but for the engine we have the larger 6.0 LS2 over the previous generation's 5.7 LS1. Speaking of transmission we just recently serviced this one with a brand new clutch and all new components relating to the clutch. We even went ahead and replaced the rear main plate, gasket and seal. I don't see any leaks or clutch issues in this car's future. Those of you that don't know, the C6 in most cases is actually a Targa Top meaning the whole roof section comes out and stores inside the rear hatch. It is fairly easy to remove requiring only one person to do so and even when stashed away, you can still fit a full size golf bag or two in the rear. I'll let the car do the rest of the bragging when you come see this beauty in person, financing is easy and trades are welcome. Swing by today.
