This 1967 Mustang Has been featured in numerous advertisements which set the stage as the car that took the show in the early 2000's movie Gone in 60 Seconds featuring Nicolas Cage and Angelina Jolie. As the tribute to one of the most recognized cars on the Big Screen today this beautiful girl went through an extensive rotisserie restoration and was updated with modern performance and convenience equipment. Under the domed hood is a professionally built 427 CI small-block V-8 that produces close to 600 HP. With Upgraded features such as ,MSD Fuel Injection, BBK headers, Magna-flow exhaust and 4 corner multi-link coil over suspension this pony can pretty much handle anything that gets in her way. Painted in Pepper Gray with black stripes, this fastback is also equipped with a Tremec manual transmission, rack-and-pinion steering, 4-wheel Baer disc brakes and 17-inch Shelby wheels wrapped in Z-rated performance tires. Modern upgrades in the black Deluxe interior include a tilt steering column, Shelby signature embroidered seats with harnesses, Retro Sound Am/FM AUX stereo, wood-rim steering wheel and Classic Instruments gauges.
